Saving Time on 'Deadman's Run' Leads to Death

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

The sign warns of a curve ahead, but few drivers heed it enough to slow down. Irwin L. Romich, owner of an antique store and manager of a farm on the southeast corner of Route 83 and Park road, points to the spot where a 20-year old Pottstown girl died Sunday. In the past two years, Romich says that seven cars have landed on the farm after crashes or spinning out of control.

Residents of Route 83 Area Alarmed, Seek Solution to Mounting Carnage

(Editor's Note—Six persons have died in automobile accidents on a two-mile stretch of Route 83 east of Spring City in the past three weeks. This is the first in a series of articles on the area's most dangerous stretch of highway.)

By PAUL LEVY
(Mercury Staff Writer)

It takes less than three minutes to legally drive the two-mile stretch of highway on Route 83 between Park road in East Vincent township, and the junction of Routes 23 and 83 in East Pikeland township.

Yet every day hundreds of drivers attempt to shave seconds from those three minutes—at the risk of their lives.

The six who died in the past three weeks are the unlucky ones. The thousands of drivers who traverse the road every day are the lucky ones, according to residents of the area.

Road to Tragedy

Just east of Spring City Route 83 becomes Deadman's Run—the nickname given by area residents to the two-mile stretch where nine persons have died in the past two years. Six of the deaths came in two accidents within the past three weeks.

"That section of Route 83—Deadman's Run we call it—is such a dangerous section of the highway that the people who aren't killed or injured are lucky."

The man who made that statement speaks from experience. He is Irwin L. Romich, manager of a farm at the Route 83 and Park road intersection, and owner of an antique shop at the same location.

In less than two years seven cars have ended up on his property as a result of accidents. The latest was the two-car collision early Sunday morning in which three young people were fatally injured.

Romich helped to pull Ruth Lenora Dickinson, 20, of Pottstown RD 1, from her wrecked car. She died on his lawn while ambulances were on the way.

It was the second time that someone had died on the front lawn of the farm owned by Jesse E. Yeager, of East Vincent township and Florida.

Four years ago a motorcyclist lost control of his vehicle and landed at practically the same spot on the lawn after the motorcycle skidded off the road and overturned.

Two nights before Sunday morning's accident, Romich related, two cars had cracked up at the intersection and two months before that a car had spun into the corner of his house after the driver lost control.

"I've forgotten all the minor ones where only cars were damaged and no one was hurt because there have been so many major collisions here," Romich explained.

Last April a car skidded across the front lawn, uprooted a 20-foot spruce tree, knocked a mail box 50-feet across the road and came to rest straddling the hedge on the corner of the property. The female driver spent several weeks in the hospital.

Another woman crashed into the barn, pulling the ceiling

Weatherman Says Clearing is Due

Pottstown will break out of the weather doldrums today, as mostly sunny conditions are forecast with a high of 75 expected, and increasingly fair weather tomorrow.

Area residents could have been singing "when the lights go on again . . ." after Monday dawned as gloomy as the long, murky weekend.

The haze and clouds finally broke into a cloudburst at 5 p. m., but the skies cleared to let the sun shine through steadily from 6 p. m. until sunset.

Low pressure areas solidly entrenched over the Virginia coast and Ontario, Canada, have kept Pottstown and the area under threatening skies since Thursday.

THERE WILL remain a chance of scattered showers or thunderstorms into the early morning, but the cloud cover should break up slowly during the day, temperatures 15 degrees higher this afternoon than they were Monday, following a low of 55 this morning.

Temperatures will remain about normal during the week, with only minor day to day change. Normal range here this time of year is 56 to 76. Showers are seen again Thursday and Friday, totaling about .3 of an inch.

Including the rainfall early Monday morning, the official accumulation for the entire weekend was 1.26 inches. The cloudburst Monday evening brought

PLAYGROUND IS ASSURED AT 'MANOR'

Future of Hillcrest Still Remains In Doubt

The playground for the Potts grove Manor area is nearly a reality, the borough recreation commission learned Monday night.

Leases signed by the borough are in Akron, O., awaiting the approval of the Robinson Clay Product company, which is providing 2.38 acres of ground at the end of Potts drive, for a nominal annual fee.

Edwin L. Shellenberger, recreation director, said the borough will equip and staff the playground for the coming Summer season.

Another playground report was less optimistic. The Hillcrest play area, which must move to make way for a new Congregation Mercy and Truth synagog, may not be able to locate to the rear of the synagog lot at North Keim and Wilson streets.

THERE WAS some concern expressed about the nearness of a golf hole on the Brookside Country club course, and the proximity of heavy construction work on the synagog building site.

The commission will study the

Joint Board Okays $750,000 Budget

A budget of almost $750,000 was adopted by the Northern Chester County Joint School board Monday night — some $72,000 higher than the 1959-60 budget.

The $747,730 budget includes six major increases over the 1959-60 budget including: teacher salaries, from $297,000 to $333,448; supplies used in instruction, from $12,737 to $17,000; transportation of pupils from $58,500 to $60,500; recreation from $5500 to $9000; retirement $20,000 to $24,000, and instructional apparatus from $750 to $8200.

The board agreed to raise minimum salaries for all starting teachers $200 and carried the increase through a schedule of 11 years.

Starting salaries for teachers with bachelor degrees are $4000, for master degrees, $4200 and PhD degrees, $4600.

Included in the measure is the State mandated $200 annual increment with an extra $100 after the fourth and seventh years.

Maximum for each of the three degrees are $6200, $6600 and $7000.

THE INCREASE in transportation comes from the addition of pupil field trips which were on another account last year.

The board voted 20-11 to accept the recreation budget after members pointedly exchanged remarks on school spirit, team moral, shortage of uniforms and cutting the budget and sell season tickets.

Last month the County school committee voted to include only $7000 for athletics in the budget which was $2000 less than requested by the athletic committee.

Harry H. Bickel, chairman of the athletic committee, requested to restore the $2000 and said the increase was needed for continued improvement of the sports program.

Harold R. Diffenderfer said, "if we expect an improvement we must provide the money."

An increase from $2875 to $6500 for books for the high school library was questioned

ARMY GROUP WILL EXPLAIN DAM PROJECT

French Creek Valley Residents Will Meet

A special report group from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will visit this area Wednesday, June 8 to tell French creek valley residents how a proposed huge dam and recreation area will affect them.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. that date in the Vincent township consolidated school at Heistand's corner on Route 23.

Russell Morgan, chief of the civilian report group, and George Thompson, of the same organization, will attempt to answer questions for landowners who may face condemnations in the huge project.

The most important question, said a representative of a newly organized landowners' group, is when will work on the project begin.

Synod Adopts Proposals For Benefits, Salaries

A recommendation for a basic salary of $4500 for all Lutheran ministers, and for fringe benefits, was adpoted by the Evangelical Lutheran ministerium of Pennsylvania Monday.

The recommendation was part of a busy agenda of the ministerium which started its four-day annual convention Monday at Buck Hill Falls.

The convention is being attended by most Pottstown and area Lutheran ministers and a lay representative of each church.

The ministerium, oldest synod of the United Lutheran church in America, is the representative body of 542 congregations in eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware.

SEVERAL POTTSTOWN and area pastors and lay delegates were nominated for positions on boards of Lutheran-supported organizations and as delegates to the United Lutheran church convention at Atlantic City in October. Elections will be today.

Nominated were: The Rev. Richard G. Hoffert, pastor of Grace Lutheran, trustee of Muhlenberg college; the Rev. L. Samuel Krouse, associate pastor of Emmanuel, member of the board of directors of the Mount Airy Theological seminary; Harold Houck, layman of Grace Lutheran; Leroy Moyer, layman of Emmanuel, and Mrs. Roy Winters, lay member of Spring City Lutheran, all delegates to the national convention.

The recommendation for basic salary was accompanied by a proposal that

Local, Area Christian Churches Will Celebrate Jesus' Ascension

Another of "The Great Feast Days" will be observed in many Christian churches Thursday when the Ascension of Jesus to Heaven is commemorated.

All Catholic and a number of Protestant churches in Pottstown and the area plan services celebrating the event of great meaning in Christian history.

Ascension Day comes annually 40 days after Easter, paralleling Jesus' Ascension 40 days after His Crucifixion.

The final four verses of the Gospel of Luke tell of the event: "And He led them out as far as to Bethany, and He lifted up His hands, and blessed them.

"And it came to pass, while He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into heaven. And they worshipped Him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy: And were continually in the temple, praising and blessing God."

Former Burgess Clarifies Stand On Airport Issue

The Federal Aviation agency hearings in Harrisburg a week ago bred a controversy over what stand former Burgess William A. Griffith would take on the proposed Municipal airport expansion.

Attorney Louis Sager, representing opponent Walter F. Schwab, said Griffith had been expected to appear and testify that the Stowe site was inadequate for Pottstown's future needs.

C. Roy Bush, a key witness for the borough's case asking the FAA to uphold a $96,121 grant for improvements, said "Griffith would say no such thing," and proposed to discredit the opposition statement.

Both sides hoped to extract some statement from Griffith verifying his favor or opposition.

Griffith Monday gave Sager a detailed statement opposing future expansion at the Municipal airport in Stowe.

State Safety Bureau Snubbed Petition to Reduce Speed on '83'

Twenty-six months ago the Pennsylvania Bureau of Highway Safety was sent a petition signed by 60 Spring City residents.

The petition requested that the speed limit on the two-mile stretch of Route 83 between Park road and the junction of Routes 83 and 23 be lowered from 50 to 35 miles per hour, or that no passing signs be posted.

The Highway Safety bureau never replied to the petition, and never acted upon it.

Fifteen months later the petitioners learned from the former township road commissioner that the petition was turned down because the accident to traffic ratio wasn't high enough.

SINCE THAT time at least nine persons have been killed on that two mile stretch of two-lane concrete—six within the past three weeks.

But the nine who were killed are only a small percentage of those who were injured or involved in crashes where only property was damaged.

Alvin S. Landes, who lives about half-way between the sites of the two triple fatalities that occurred within the past three weeks, began the petition in March, 1958.

He had a special reason for starting the petition—a few years earlier his daugh-

$9500 Is Pledged To YWCA Fund Drive

Nearly one fifth of the goal of the YWCA fund drive was reached Monday night when workers turned in their first report at a meeting in the "Y".

The drive for $50,000 to renovate and expand YWCA facilities entered the solicitation phase a week ago. The campaign ends June 17.

Twenty-five workers and leaders were present at Monday night's meeting.

Tides Started by Chile Quake Spread Havoc Over Wide Area

New Earth Tremors Trigger Avalanche on Live Volcano Slope

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A death-dealing avalanche touched off on a live volcano slope by new earth convulsions added Monday to Chile's prolonged seize of quake and tidal wave woes. The nine reported killed by the avalanche ran Chile's official death toll over the weekend to 308.

The Interior Ministry said the Osorno volcano itself did not erupt but that tons of rocks were shaken loose from its peak, roaring down on the valley.

The volcano rears up on the east side of Lake Llanquihue, 600 miles south of Santiago and a few miles from Puerto Montt, where 30 residents were killed Sunday in a giant tidal wave.

Besides the dead in the series of disasters, 130 were missing and 1,600 injured. Thousands were homeless.

Hardest hit Sunday along with Puerto Montt were the towns of Ancud and Valdivia.

The Interior Ministry told reporters it would no longer announce total casualty figures in order not to alarm the people. This move indicated the actual toll might be much greater than what has been announced.

The damage in wrecked buildings, disrupted roads and other losses throughout nine central and southern provinces totaled millions of dollars.

While aid sped to Chile from her Latin-American neighbors and U.S. bases in the Panama Canal Zone, seismograph recording instruments picked up the continuing earth shocks through the night.

A strong movement Monday jarred Valdivia, a progressive city of 30,000 between the Andes and the Pacific 450 miles south of Santiago, where the initial quakes killed 15 persons.

A boys' school was destroyed, a bridge spanning the Calle River was twisted out of shape, and gaping cracks appeared in Valdivia's streets.

Several buildings were heavily damaged in Ancud, a port and resort town of 4,000, in the heart of the disaster area.

The Interior Ministry said some casualties were reported in that town, 600 miles south of Santiago, but it had no details.

An Argentine radio operator said he had picked up an amateur's broadcast estimating 100 were dead in Ancud and from 80 to 90 per cent of its buildings destroyed.

Situated on the north shore of Chiloe Island in Ancud Bay, the town and its suburbs were reported struck by three waves in succession in the Sunday outburst from the Pacific.

The Santiago newspaper El Mercurio said the waves, which at one point were 24 feet high, knocked down the post office and a bank, heavily damaged the city's cathedral and washed away scores of homes. Water, electricity and gas services halted.

Newest Airliner Explodes, Killing Four Crewmen

ATLANTA (AP) — A Convair 880, the nation's newest jet airliner, exploded and crashed on takeoff Monday, killing the four crewmen who were taking it up on a training flight.

No one else was aboard the four-million-dollar gleaming white pride of Delta Air Lines' fleet.

Delta officials identified the victims as Capt. James H. Logino, 41, College Park, Ga.; Capt. H. L. Laube, 45, College Park; 1st Officer Bryan Bolt, Atlanta, and Capt. W. F. Williams, 50, Miami.

C. E. Woolman, president of Delta, said there was no immediate explanation for the accident. The Civil Aeronautics Board is investigating.

Delta put the 600 m.p.h. plane into service only a week ago on routes between New York and Atlanta, New York and New Orleans and New York and Houston. It was scheduled to go into service between Atlanta and Dallas Sunday.

The sparkling swept-wing craft thundered down the runway and started to cimb when it exploded, and tumbled back into a red clay embankment.

Witnesses told of a deafening roar, a blaze of red fire and then billowing clouds of black smoke which poured from the wreckage.

Hawaiian City Smashed By Sea's Force

HONOLULU (AP) — Four tidal waves, spawned in the vast Pacific by Chile's destructive earthquakes, shattered downtown Hilo Monday.

Twenty-six persons were reported killed and police said dozens were missing in Hawaii's second largest city.

Damage in the wrecked waterfront and business sections was expected to exceed 25 million dollars in the port city of 26,000 on the Island of Hawaii.

Hospitals reported 51 injured.

Other islands in the Hawaiian chain were buffeted by the quake-born seismic sea waves, but damage was slight compared to the toll in Hilo.

All the island state's population was alerted by siren warnings more than three hours before the first wave hit at 12:55 a.m. HST (5:25 a.m. EST).

The warning system, installed after a disastrous 1946 seismic wave killed 159 persons in Hilo and other Hawaii areas, warned thousands to move out of low lying areas.

These included hundreds of guests in Waikiki Beach hotels in Honolulu. Water surged through the main floors of the plush Waikiki hotels and briefly flooded Kalakaua avenue, the Honolulu resort district's main street.

The Coast Guard rescued six persons from a cabin cruiser that broke up on the rocky coast of Kauai Island, northernmost in the island chain.

The massive wave force, generated by continuing earthquake shocks in Chile, ranged across the world's largest ocean from New Zealand to the California coast.

In Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor, hundreds of small craft and yachts were ripped from their moorings. Boat harbor docks were heavily damaged by flood currents sweeping back and forth through narrow channels.

San Diego Harbor suffered extensive dock and small craft damage. Ferry service was disrupted.

Almost nine hours after the first tidal wave struck Hilo, a tidal wave pushed into the northern California port of Crescent City. A 50-foot fishing boat was capsized.

32 FOOT WAVE REPORTED IN JAP VILLAGE

Coast Is Alerted For Bigger Series

TOKYO (AP) — Towering tidal waves generated by Chilean earthquakes far across the Pacific smashed into sleeping Japan Tuesday, spreading death and destruction over a wide area.

An unconfirmed report said 150 persons were killed in a single village by a wave 32 feet high.

The report was based on a police estimate reaching the U.S. Air Force base at Misawa, 30 miles northwest of the stricken northern Honshu village, Momoishi-Machi.

The Japan Broadcasting Corp. reported a preliminary nationwide toll of 30 dead, 70 missing and 101 injured.

Communications were broken and police could confirm only a few of the deaths.

The broadcast corporation said 35,000 houses were flooded, 1,900 of them heavily damaged or washed away, and 836 ships torn from their moorings.

The sudden waves turned many coastal villages of the northern Honshu prefectures of Aomori and Iwate into tangled masses of overturned buildings, debris and ships washed ashore.

The U.S. 5th Air Force dispatched helicopters on rescue missions. It was notified that 5,000 houses were flooded in the single community of Hachinohe, northern Honshue.

The Central Meteorological Bureau alerted the Pacific coast of northern and central Japan for a continuing series of waves throughout the day.

It warned that even bigger waves may be on the way.

Hamanaka Village, near the Hokkaido port of Kushiro, was one of the hardest hit, with five reported dead and 40 missing.

A powerful wave picked up automobiles and houses at Ofunato, northern Honshu, and deposited them on railway tracks, Kyodo news service reported. A 20-ton fishing boat was washed 950 yards in shore. Ofunato reported more than 10 dead.

Most Wanted Nazi War Criminal Is Reported Captured in Israel

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Adolf Eichmann, the most wanted Nazi war criminal still at large, has been captured and will stand trial in Israel, Premier David Ben-Gurion announced Monday.

Ben-Gurion charged in the Knesset (Parliament) that Eichmann and other Nazi leaders were responsible for "the extermination of six million Jews of Europe."

The Premier told the startled Knesset—which had no previous inkling the long manhunt was over—that Eichmann—now 54—had recently been seized by Israel security forces.

"Adolf Eichmann is already under arrest in Israel," Ben-Gurion said, "and will shortly be placed on trial in Israel under terms of Israel's law for the trial of Nazis and their collaborators."

The Premier gave no details of the arrest of the man who was a top aide of Heinrich Himmler, boss of the dread Nazi secret police or Gestapo.

Following his capture, Eichmann was arraigned before an Israeli magistrate at Jaffa, who issued a 15-day detention order.

The Ministry of Justice said Eichmann readily admitted his identity and asked for legal counsel. The brief proceedings before the magistrate were translated from Hebrew to German for Eichmann's benefit, the ministry added.

Eichmann vanished from sight in the days when Hitler's Reich was crumbling under Allied blows.

He was reported thereafter in several Latin-American countries, in Australia, in Switzerland and last October in Kuwait, the British protectorate in the Middle East. The British hunted for him in vain.

West Germany also wanted him. A warrant for murder had been circulated for Eichmann for years. Last year, German authorities dealing with war crimes got a report he might be in Israel and asked Israeli officials to look for him.

Chiefs of Israeli police and security services were present in the guest section when Ben-Gurion announced the arrest of "one of the greatest war criminals, who was responsible together with the Nazi leaders for what they called the final solution of the Jewish question, namely the extermination of six million Jews of Europe."

Born in Germany, Eichmann moved to Austria and there joined the SS in 1932, six years before the Nazis took over the country. He supervised the deportation of Jews from Austria and Czechoslovakia before the Nazis entrusted him with his biggest job.

Kennedy Denies Scott's Charge Of Appeasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) strode into the Senate Monday night and told a Republican critic: "I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser."

Kennedy, pacesetting candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, arrived in the chamber several hours after the Senate's country ahead of politics truce exploded in bitter partisan charge and countercharge.

During the hot word fight, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) had declared Kennedy and Adlai E. Stevenson should be summoned before congressional investigators "to relieve themselves of the gross suspicion of appeasement" growing out of their criticisms of Eisenhower administration policies leading up to the summit collapse last week.

When Kennedy arrived he told Scott:

"I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser. I do not advocate a policy that would weaken the United States.

"I'm sure the senator (Scott) can't believe I'm an appeaser."

Scott denied calling Kennedy an appeaser.

"I am willing to abide by the senator's statement," Scott said. "I hope that will satisfy the sensitivity of the senator."

Kennedy replied that this was a "somewhat grudging" admission.

The Massachusetts senator contended Scott had taken out of context a statement Kennedy made in a campaign speech in Portland, Ore.

Kennedy said that when he was asked by a student what he would have done if he had been in Eisenhower's place at Paris, he replied that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had placed two conditions on his willingness to hold the conference.

One of these was that Eisenhower apologize for the plane incident, Kennedy said. He recalled he told his audience he thought "this might have been possible to do."

But Kennedy said he added in almost the same sentence that if Khrushchev had merely asked the President to express regret "that would have been a more reasonable term."

Kennedy said he regretted the timing of the U2 flight because he believed it destroyed "the prestige of the President in the eyes of the Russian people."

Kennedy declared Scott was unfair in attacking him and Stevenson for statements made about the summit conference blowup.

Lodge Accuses Soviets Of Widespread Spying

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States accused the Soviet Union Monday night of maintaining a vast spy network while trying to curb U.S. efforts to guard against surprise Communist attack.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made the charge in the U.N. Security Council.

He was replying to a demand from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the United States be condemned as an aggressor for aerial spying on Soviet territory. Gromyko warned that such action ran the risk of kindling the flames of World War III.

Unless immediate action is taken by the U.N., Gromyko asserted, "grave consequences" could result.

Lodge said that the Soviets have thousands of spies everywhere, and that since the death of Stalin 360 actually had been convicted in the free world.

"If it ever should be accepted that the Soviet Union can maintain a double standard while they have thousands of spies everywhere. . . then the free world would surely be in peculiar danger," Lodge asserted.

He spoke for only 15 minutes in comparison to an hour-long speech by Gromyko. The gallreies in the Council chamber were jammed with both diplomats and ordinary spectators.

Gromyko denounced President Eisenhower and accused the United States of perfidy comparable to that of Japanese diplomats in Washington just prior to the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

He called on the Council not only to condemn the United States as an aggressor for aerial spying, but also to request that the United States put an end to such flights.

But Lodge denied that the United States had committed any aggressive acts "against the Soviet Union or any other country, either through its Air Force or through any other agency of the U.S. government."

Lodge named a dozen spies he said were arrested in the United States since the death of Stalin.

He said the United States in addition to naming spies could also bring up the presence of a Soviet vessel off Long Island's Montauk Point a few weeks ago that was "deliberately interfering with operations of the U.S. Navy."

He made these additional points:

1. The United States has suspended spy flights similar to the U2 spy plane downed over the Soviet Union last May 1 and the free world could only speculate why the Soviet Union sought to bring up the matter in the United Nations.

2. The United States is prepared to negotiate an open skies treaty with the Soviet Union that would obviate forever any need for attempts at aerial espionage by any nation.

"At an appropriate time we intend to make proposals to get at the heart of the matter and we hope our proposals will prove constructive," he added.

He denied the Soviet charges as fallacious and said the United States was glad of the chance to air the issues involved in the Council.

Diplomats said there was virtually no chance of the Soviet Union getting a resolution condemning the United States through the Council.

In an attempt to ease tension in the wake of the sharp U.S.-Soviet exchange, four of the smaller nations on the Council introduced a resolution calling for early resumption of East-West negotiations on disarmament and other big issues.

Strategy Board Meeting Called By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has set Wednesday night as the time for his report to the people on the collapse of the summit conference.

In apparent preparation Monday for a major effort, he called an unusual meeting of the National Security Council, his top level strategy board, for Tuesday.

He also kept his office calendar otherwise free of appointments and passed up the usual Wednesday news conference.

Eisenhower is expected to give his reasons for the failure of the big power meeting at Paris, where he was denounced by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and discuss what may lie ahead in the cold war.

He conferred with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and with White House aides who help draft his speeches.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty was asked whether the calling of the Security Council meeting for Tuesday had anything to do with Eisenhower's plans to report on the summit fiasco. He replied: "While I never report on NSC discussions, I would assume that would at least be discussed."

The Security Council, which usually meets on Thursday mornings, is composed of the President, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Herter, Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Director Leo A. Hoegh of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

Reds Promise Statement on U.S. Captives

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet and East German sources promised Monday there will be a statement on the nine Americans — one a woman — whose Copenhagen-Hamburg flight Friday landed them in Soviet captivity.

The statement may come Tuesday. The Communist informants declined to say exactly when or even who would make it. There was no hint what bearing the statement might have on the captives' future.

The landing of a U.S. Air Force C47 transport in Communist East Germany put the Americans in Soviet hands. The Soviets announced the plane was forced down by the Soviet military.

The United States is still awaiting a reply from Col. Gen. I. I. Yakubovsky, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany, to a request Saturday from Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, U.S. Army commander in Europe, for immediate release of the Americans and the plane.

The incident involved a ticklish decision for the Soviets: Should they just hand the nine quietly back to the U.S. authorities, or turn them over to the Communist East Germans?

The first procedure would be a snub to their East German allies. The second might create more of a fuss over the affair than the Soviets want.

CHIROPRACTIC STARTED WITH PLATO

Plato, the great Greek philosopher, broke the bonds of "hidebound," custom-restricted thinking. His doctrine of independent, investigative thought and practice was basic to the development of all the healing professions as we know them today. In this ancient era, man began to break from superstitions, and to apply logical thinking to the art of healing the mind and body.

Plato pointed out that every living thing is activated by an inherent "vital principle," which we speak of today as "nerve energy."

It was then, too, that Hippocrates set forth new laws of health, and gave new stature and dignity to the art of healing. He was first to recognize the fundamental principles now incorporated in the science known as chiropractic. He advised his colleagues to "look well to the spine for the cause of disease."

Hippocrates' spinal theories were followed by Galen, who pointed to the nervous system as the key to maximum health.

Chiropractors are constantly striving to maintain these basic principles, institute higher professional standards, and seeking increased opportunities to serve the sick.

SPEAKING OF MONEY

By E. PAUL OLIPHANT

President, Security Trust Co.

What is Federal Deposit Insurance?

When you see the sign at your bank, "Deposits insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation"—what does it mean? How did it start? How does it work?

Let's look into this subject today, because it is comforting to know how well protected your money is by this precise type of coverage, which is exclusive to banks.

Remember the depression of the early '30s? If you're old enough to remember that, you've probably got some economic scars to show for it.

Well, anyway, that brought about the beginning of nation-wide deposit insurance. After the bank holiday, the Emergency Banking Act of 1933 established the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to insure bank deposits under a government guarantee. It had been tried here and there on a small scale, but this was the first time it had been done by the federal government for the benefit of the entire country.

E. Paul Oliphant

Confidence Spread

It was amazingly successful. In the case of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, confidence spread rapidly. Perhaps the key lies in the word Federal which implies, and means, that our government guarantees deposits up to a limit of $10,000 per depositor in each insured bank.

More than 95% of the banks in the country today are so insured, and all deposits in insured banks are subject to an assessment of one-twelfth of one percent per year to maintain this insurance.

Now a logical question you might ask is, "Can I have two accounts in one bank and have both of them covered by insurance?"

Yes, if they total up to no more than $10,000, you are fully covered. In addition, your wife or husband's account is also insured for the full $10,000—even though it may be deposited in the same bank. This makes possible $20,000 worth of insured deposits in the bank.

Failures Unlikely

Now it is not very likely that a bank should up and fail today, because of all the safeguards we have which we did not have during the depression.

But if so, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation would upon application immediately pay you the amount of your deposit in cash, up to the limit of $10,000 within ten days.

It works something like life insurance, and it is a wonderful protection to have for your money. But don't forget: only a bank can be a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

NOTE: For financial advice or banking services, you are cordially invited to consult Mr. Oliphant or his executive assistants Harold E. Arbogast and Joseph Hutt, at Security Trust Company, High and Hanover Sts., Pottstown.

Sir Laurence's Leading Lady Forbidden to Act

LONDON (AP) — Sir Laurence Olivier Monday lost his leading lady—the girl Lady Olivier says the actor-knight wants to marry.

Joan Plowright, costarring with Sir Laurence in the Ionesco play "Rhinoceros," went into hiding in London and the theater announced that she is ill.

"She is suffering from acute gastroenteritis and her doctor has forbidden her to act for some days," the theater said.

The 29-year-old Miss Plowright will, in any event, leave "Rhinoceros" June 5 when it moves from Chelsea's Royal Court Theater to London's West End. Her part will be taken by 25-year-old Maggie Smith.

Miss Plowright's mother was asked whether her husband had gone to London to dissuade their daughter from marrying Sir Laurence, 53.

"Oh, no," she said. "Nothing like that. He's gone to give her moral support."

Sir Laurence stayed indoors at his London home. He refused to answer telephone calls and made no statement. He has still not confirmed or denied a statement by his wife, Vivien Leigh, that he wants a divorce in order to marry Miss Plowright.

Miss Plowright also has refused to make any statement about her personal affairs. "I have never sought that sort of publicity and never will," she told newsmen before she went into hiding.

Her husband, television actor Robert Gage, from whom she separated 18 months ago, has been on vacation in Majorca for the past week.

Fred Astaire Looms Big For TV Academy Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will it be another year with Emmy for Fred Astaire? That possibility appeared Monday with the nominations for the 1959-60 TV Academy Awards.

Last year, "An Evening With Fred Astaire" danced off with nine gold statuettes in various divisions. He can't repeat that record because the Emmy categories have been pared.

But Fred's again in the running for best musical-variety performance, competing with Harry Belafonte and Dinah Shore.

"Another Evening With Fred Astaire" also drew a nomination as best variety program. It will be in a race with the Dinah Shore Show, Fabulous Fifties, Garry Moore Show and Tonight with Belafonte. In reducing the number of categories, the Academy has created the somewhat illogical competition of single specials against weekly shows.

Another unusual race is in the best series actor division. It is a three-away affair between Westerner Richard Boone (Have Gun, Will Travel), sleuth Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) and crime-buster Robert Stack (The Untouchables).

The best series actress contest demonstrates TV's reliance on standard movie names. The competitors: Donna Reed, Jane Wyatt (Father Knows Best) and Loretta Young.

The awards will be handed out on an NBC special June 20. Other major nominations follow:

Outstanding achievement in humor:

Art Carney Special—VIP; Danny Thomas Show; Father Knows Best; Jack Benny Show; Red Skelton Show.

Outstanding achievement in drama:

Ethan Frome; The Moon and Sixpence; Playhouse 90; The Turn of the Screw; The Untouchables.

Outstanding achievement in news:

Joan Greenwood Marries Actor

NEW YORK (AP)—English actress Joan Greenwood was married last Monday at Discovery Bay, Jamaica, to actor Andre Morell.

Last year the 50,000th refugee came across on July 24. Observers attributed the increased flow to the Communists' farm collectivization program in East Germany.

Four things belong to a judge: To hear courteously, to answer wisely, to consider soberly and to decide impartially.—(Socrates)

Needless Slaughter

WITH headlines of three killed in one motor accident still fresh, it seemed a poor auto safety example for a father to set for his son when he pulled out of a long line of traffic, made a left oblique, and drove on the wrong side of the street to deposit mail in a box at North Hanover street and Jefferson avenue early Monday morning.

Last year 4790 were killed and 151,000 injured in "on wrong side of road" accidents in the U.S.

Yet every day in Pottstown hundreds drive on the wrong side of the street, park their cars against traffic, defy traffic rules and get away with it because police don't enforce the laws.

It is apparent that despite statistical lists, newspaper headlines, we continue to ignore the great and needless waste of human resources and material values. We shake our heads in sorrow over friends or relatives listed, children killed, lives blighted.

Then we add more names of the maimed and disfigured on the ever-increasing toll of dishonor.

What is the solution to this disgrace? Obviously no one has found it to date.

Statistics, pledges and slogans have little effect on the public. None of these has brought about lasting awareness of the needless waste of lives, the untold suffering, that the dishonor roll represents.

Every year, more and more of us heedlessly forget or intentionally disregard the messages of safety experts. We refuse to make that personal commitment to greater care which is necessary if we are to survive the holocaust of our highways.

Only through an awareness of the terrible power of the modern automobile and only through the desire of each of us to keep our good names from the pages of the dishonor roll will we begin to lower the deathly toll, and make our highways safe avenues of commerce and pleasure for all.

Don't Drop Out!

THE school year is fast drawing to a close.

Examinations are being taken. Commencement exercises are just a few days off.

Then comes the vacation period, when hundreds of youngsters will be seeking employment.

It won't be easy, that getting of a job. Some who do find work will find it more appealing than the prospect of going back to the battle of the books. They will debate dropping out.

Easy money, the prospect of being able to buy shiny, new cars, the temptation of going steady will lure away some boys.

What causes pupils to drop out of school?

The buying splurge of some parents was held as one of the big reasons by Stanley I. Davenport Jr., princpal of the Pottstown High school. "Mothers and fathers buy goods they can't afford," he said, "and then fall back on their children to keep up payments."

"It's the car craze that cripples us," is the way Superintendent of Schools Havard Fosnocht put it.

"Children are not being impressed enough with the fact that there is more to life than driving a shiny car with big fenders" was the third comment. This was from Dr. Carl D. Mornewek, State director of educational research.

It's a sad commentary on spending habits when parents have to get kids to quit school to pay the family bills. Especially when such buying habits include luxuries. (But what is a luxury these days? Isn't a TV set as much a necessity as a bathtub? Won't these families ask: "Why am I so underprivileged that I can't have the same TV set the Joneses have?")

Now, if a family is hungry, if an orphaned boy has to quit school to become the breadwinner, those are legitimate reasons. Even then ambitious youngsters can continue their schooling at night, or through the shop.

There's one bit of advice every educator will give the boy this time of year: Don't quit school. Parents, too, must be impressed that learning is worth while, as Mr. Davenport pointed out.

The high school graduate, in the long run, earns a great deal more money over a life's span than the man who quit school when he was in junior high. And the college graduate on the average gets much more money than the boy who just got a high school diploma.

So stay in school! Don't think of quitting, even if it means those few luxuries. You'll enjoy more of the better things in life later!

TV Makes All-Day Loafers of Wives?

Poor Henpecked Husbands

To the Editor: What is the American home coming to anymore? At one time it was a place to be proud of; but now it is not.

The women get out of bed in the morning and from that time on it is television all day and night.

The men, whom I shall class as henpecked, come from work; start off by doing their breakfast dishes, wash all the woman's TV snack dishes and then clean up the house.

And if there is time, he also does the wash before going to bed.

The homes are dirty all week. The only time they get a good cleaning is when the henpecked father is away from the factory over the weekend.

It is disgusting what this majority of TV wives are doing, not only to our fair community, but also to our nation.

State Underpays Employes?

To the Editor: I, for one, am sick and tired of hearing about our poor, underpaid teachers.

Even the lowest paid of them earns more in a year for working a 30-to 35 hour week only about eight months of the year than my husband earns working a 40 hour week, 50 weeks of the year.

We should all be so underpaid!

And who is my husband's employer? The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, second richest state in the union, which can't afford to pay its employes a living wage.

Why don't these poor, poor teachers get out and get jobs for the Summer instead of sitting in the sun, crying because they aren't being paid for sitting?

And let's think for a change about people who are really underpaid, starting with state employees. Please.

Russian Blackmail

To the Editor: In view of the power struggles of the Kremlin to dominate the world, it appears to me that the predominant factor which prompted Premier Khrushchev to sabotage the recent summit meeting is atomic blackmail.

Present and past threats on the part of Mr. K. indicate, in my opinion, that he will increasingly seek to attain his evil objectives without a hot war in the immediate future.

The surrender to total blackmail on the installment plan means that our children will pay the last installment on the chains of tyranny.

The Khrushchevs must be told again and again that to engage in international blackmail is to place humanity, including the blackmailer himself, outside the gate of an all-oncuming inferno.

No longer can such freebooters escape the universal wrath of a knowledgeable world.

The Voice of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Hi'Ya, Stranger!

IF YOU'VE hurried into New York to see some living threatre before the strike-tnreatened living theatre ceases to exist, dash to the Alvin theatre and get tickets for "Greenwillow."

This most underrated musical show of the Broadway season is scheduled to close in little more than a week, but connoisseurs of tasteful theatre will find it a delight for many reasons—Anthony Perkin's enchanting performance and surprisingly impressive singing voice, Frank Loesser's music, a gaily contrived setting, and inventive choreography.

All but two of the drama critics murdered "Greenwillow"—one said he didn't understand it, which is inexplicable to me—but I loved every minute of it. A little late, but I did.

In a quite different, more modern vein, you'll find "Bye, Bye Birdie" fun. It's a spoof on the Elvis Presley type singer and his teenage fans, but the cast is dynamically attractive, the music is appropriate and stunningly arranged, and if you don't laugh you'd better drop into the morgue and have someone take your pulse.

That's it. You know about the rest of the hits—"Gypsy" is the best, currently; "Sound of Music" has a lovely score and Mary Martin isn't to be missed; the new City Center version of "The King and I" bowled over everyone with its excellence.

Take it from there.

THE YOUNGEST supper club singer in town is also the prettiest and the best. She's Joanie Sommers at the Left Bank, and her talent, timing and hip choice of tunes are amazing in a 19 year old out of Buffalo by way of Los Angeles. She's lovely to look at, astonishing to the ears—and definitely for the agenda.

It's Les Girls all the way on the Manhattan night club scene. Jane Morgan puts on a glossily professional act at the Plaza's Persian Room. She wears stunning costumes, offers a collection of stirring songs, and does just enough minicry to prove her versatility. A real crowd-pleaser.

At Basin Street East, Frances Faye is breaking it up in her frenetic style. If you're feeling strong, this might prove a memorable experience; at any rate, you won't doze while she's on.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

DANIEL AND DAVID, aged 24 and 23, are studying at the Indiana university Medical center.

"Dad," Daniel began when they were home recently for Sunday dinner, "just how does lack of iodine make the thyroid gland enlarge until it is called a goiter?"

And that is one of the most challenging problems in modern medicine.

The thyroid gland in the neck is the pacesetter for our bodily metabolism. It is similar to the throttle in our automobiles.

And iodine is vital to the proper functioning of the thyroid. But when our diet is low in iodine, our body somehow signals that it needs more thyroid secretion.

The thyroid has no "brain," yet it somehow receives the body's order for more thyroxine (thyroid's secretion).

So it may double its employes (cells) and treble or quardruple them.

That seems logical, for when a steel mill wants more steel output, it would probably try to add more men.

BUT MORE men would not produce more steel if the essential raw material, namely, iron ore, were lacking.

Well, the poor thyroid gland doesn't seem to know that it can't make more thyroxine without iodine, so it keeps doubling and trebling its workers (cells) until a big goiter forms.

Yet this overgrowth of thyroid cells could have been stopped at the outset by adding a trace of iodine to our food input, as was done back in 1924 with iodized salt.

In leukemia (blood cancer) the white corpuscles likewise begin to double, treble and even increase 100 times their normal number. Do these white corpuscles simply try to offset a lack of some vital chemical, now in ocean water, but perhaps missing from our soil?

Likewise, in cancer, the normal cells of the body may also go haywire and start doubling and trebling.

SOON A TUMOR mass forms, much like the bulging goiter in the neck when we lack adequate iodine input.

The normal skin cells usually reproduce normal skin cells, but they may ultimately lose this ability to reproduce their own kind. Instead wild cells (cancer) now are formed.

Modern medical research is now stressing the importance of furnishing the body the raw materials that our various glands need if we wish the body to manufacture the various secretions required for good health.

If our soil (and therefore our food) lacks 20 or more chemicals, maybe these deficiencies are what ultimately throw our physiology out of balance.

Just as a goiter can develop from lack of one single chemical, namely iodine, maybe cancer and other deficiency ailments may be due to similar lack of one or more trace chemicals.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: Lucille Ball is an active and purposeful woman these days, dividing her time between making a picture with Bob Hope and getting ready for this summer's big move to New York and Broadway.

Along about Thanksgiving time she opens in her Broadway play, "Wildcat", and she is, in her own words, "terrified."

Fortunately, she has been "terrified" for some years now, Broadway having been her goal ever since the early days of "I Love Lucy".

She knew the TV series couldn't last forever and was determined to call it quits with TV the minute it was over. Then came the big $11,000,000 deal with Westinghouse and for two years she reluctantly went on appearing intermittently in hour-long Lucy and Desi specials.

The instant her Westinghouse contract was up, she filed for divorce. It can be stated with all the certainty of a man predicting that the sun will rise tomorrow morning that Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz will never work together again.

LUCY TODAY is tired. The reaction to the natural emotional upset of the divorce is beginning to set in.

Oddly, she looks better than she has in some time.

"Peace of mind will set in after the reaction wears off," she smiles wanly. "Peace of mind lies in knowing you have done the the right thing and in doing your best to keep it that way each day."

Work never bothered Lucy and actually is her salvation. "I see as much of my children as any mother," she says. "They're off at school all day. So I get home when they get home. We play. They have their baths and dinner and first thing you know it's bedtime.

"They're excited about going to New York. I've rented a big seven-room apartment at 69th Street and Lexington Avenue. It has a terrace so they won't have a cooped-up feeling.

"THE BIG problem is their father. They miss him, of course, and can't understand why he isn't there any more. Naturally, I can't tell them. Desi has disillusioned everybody else, but I am not going to let him disillusion the children."

There is both a sadness and a strength about Lucy. She feels she has been humiliated, yet she knows she must continue to live and work as though nothing had happened. "I'm not the type," she says, "to sit home and mope. That would be fatal."

Says a close friend: "Lucy is all right. It's Desi everyone is worried about."

Interpreting The News

Everyone Getting Into U2 Spy Act

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

All the soft pedaling to the contrary, the great debate over U2 and summitry has been going on at the grass roots for nearly three weeks and it was obvious the politicians would have to get into it.

It's the first issue in years where everybody over the age of 10 has an opinion, usually violent.

Now we have James A. Farley bitterly attacking the titular head of the Democratic party he loves so well, because Adlai E. Stevenson attacked the Republican president. And Lyndon B. Johnson, who will go to the Democratic convention with a flock of votes for the presidential nomination, still is trying to hold down the noise.

The Democrats show by their statements that they have a big issue in hand but don't know what to do with it.

The Republicans, with their appeals for unity, can bank on a great popular reverence for the President, but automatically are placed on the defensive.

This is not merely a debate over responsibility for past mistakes and the degree of error.

The chairmen of several congressional committees want to get in their word. Political expediency will be mixed with sincere efforts to plug liaison gaps in the government structure, and some old grudges will be at work.

In the long run, specific events of the past are likely to be overshadowed by consideration of the place and function of the Central Intelligence Agency, and whether it could be better integrated with the administrative and legislative institutions of the government without impiraing its efficiency.

It has not yet been shown publicly that there was lack of liaison between the CIA and the State Department, but some people are strongly suspicious. If there was such a lack, and the agency could produce what the world most fears, war by mistake, the demand for a new system of checks will be insistent.

Because of juxtaposition, since Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev used the U2 incident to wreck the Paris summit conference, the debate also seems likely to involve the whole practice of summitry and open diplomacy.

The preconvention atmosphere is an unhealthy one in which to discuss such issues, which need the clinical rather than the political approach. Yet there is some value, if there must be a post-mortem and study of the future, in getting it done while there is a stalemate in international affairs.

Your Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

WHY DOES your child have an allergy?

It's probably because you or your spouse are allergic. Or maybe it can be traced directly to your own parents or even your brothers and sisters.

Allergy, you see, has a tendency to be inherited.

This doesn't mean that your youngster necessarily will have asthma simply because you have asthma. But the tendency is there.

Your offspring may develop eczema, hay fever, or some other type of allergy. However, if an allergy is inherited, it is likely to be the same allergy.

Allergy to various types of food is fairly common among infants and young children. As I have mentioned previously, eggs, wheat and milk are among the foods which most often cause allergy problems in young children.

If the reaction is severe, it is probably best to avoid the trouble-causing foods.

Avoidance of such foods for a considerable length of time may help the child develop a tolerance for them.

Sometimes desensitization injections are of help, usually when the allergy is caused by inhaling food substances rather than by eating them.

There is also another way of making trouble-causing foods acceptable to your children. It's a long-drawn-out process and should be considered only when the allergy is caused by basic foods such as eggs, wheat and milk, which the youngsters should have.

This method may be troublesome, but it is actually very simple.

Very minute quantities of the offending foods are given orally to the child. And each day the amount of the foods is increased ever so slightly.

Now when I say minute, I mean minute. At the beginning, only a single drop of milk, for example, should be used. Maybe even this drop will have to be diluted have mentioned the time as being from one year to eight or ten years. Ultimate development is set for the year 2010, according to present plans.

Naturally, this immunizing procedure should be carried out only under the supervision of a doctor. Tedious, yes, but it is one way of licking the problem.

In a recent special public hearing in Reading, the Army engineers said at the moment there is no way of telling when the project will get underway

All work depends on when the State can appropriate funds for the project—and $13 million has been mentioned as the cost.

When completed, the lake and recreational area will cover a total of 4280 acres, with water inundating much of Pughtown, parts of Knauertown and Coventryville, and a stretch of Route 100.

THE PROJECT is part of a comprehensive program of flood control, water supply, power and recreation facilities for the entire Delaware river basin.

The French creek dam is the only project in the enormous, long-range plan for the Delaware Basin listed as "tentative."

The group of French creek area residents has been organized to see if it can head off the plans before they are officially slated for development.

Synod Adopts Proposals For Benefits, Salaries

ministers receive pension and hospitalization benefits, car allowance, parsonage use and payment of utilities.

The synod's district deans proposed the salary figure as a guideline for congregations.

WHILE THE synod has no authority to enforce compliance with the proposal, it went on record as recommending that congregations "move as quickly as possible" toward the goal.

In a reversal of a rule it had established one year before, the synod decided Monday to prohibit lay leaders from filling vacant pulpits.

The resolution was formed by a group of pastors, headed by the Rev. Robert Lamparter, pastor of St. John's, Phoenixville. The president of the synod retains the right to call laymen in a supply capacity whenever the situation warrants and when the church council of the congregation involved approves his choice.

Dr. Charles M. Cooper, president of the synod, reported a 25 percent increase in receipts over last year by the synod.

HE NOTED that synod-wide appeals have resulted in oversubscription of pledges for Muhlenberg college and for the Germantown Home for the Aged.

The nearly 1000 members present learned that the synod made moderate gains in membership last year.

The baptized membership increased 3442, to 391,197 persons; confirmed membership rose 1358 persons, to 268,153; and the number of communing members increased 1465, to 203,484.

The number of congregations, 542, is the same as before.

Local, Area Christian Churches Will Celebrate Jesus' Ascension

oriented tradition. The Knights will be in uniform, including "chapeau" with a white plume three-quarter length coats, and sword belt without sword.

The 70 members will march in procession and recession at the 8 p. m. service and will also serve as ushers prior to the service. Harold C. Christman, 71 Mt. Vernon street, commander, will lead the group.

The extinguishing of the Paschal candle for the last time will be part of the sacrament of the altar service Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in Grace Lutheran church.

THE CANDLE was lit Easter Sunday as a symbol of Jesus' Resurrection on Earth and re-lit at each service after Easter. The final light and extinguishing will symbolize Jesus' departure from the earth in His Ascension.

A sermon entitled "Looking Up" will be delivered by the Rev. Richard G. Hoffert, Grace Lutheran pastor.

Holy Communion will be administered in Christ Episcopal church in an Ascension Day service at 10 a. m. and special services also are planned at St. John's Lutheran, South Pottstown, at 7:30 p. m.

For Catholics Ascension Day is a "Holy Day of Obligation" when they must attend a mass on penalty of committing a mortal sin.

SEVERAL MASSES are scheduled by all Catholic churches.

Children of all parochial schools, including St. Pius X High school, have the day off from their studies.

The Paschal Candle ceremony also plays a vital part in Roman Catholic churches on Ascension Day. The candle lit at Easter is extinguished for the last time and removed from the altar step on the Gospel side of the altar.

The Feast of Our Lord's Ascension is one of six great feast days celebrated by the church. Others are: Circumcision of Our Lord, Jan. 1; the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin, Aug. 15; All Saints Day, Nov. 1; the Immaculate Conception, Dec. 8, and Christmas.

A part of the service in St. John's Greek Catholic church will be the symbolic removal of the Holy Shroud. The celebrant removes the shroud, placed over the altar on Easter, as a token of Jesus Ascension.

THE HOLY Trinity Russian Eastern Orthodox Catholic church will start its observance with a Vigil service at 7 o'clock Wednesday night.

The service includes the blessing of the five loaves of bread and the wine, wheat and oils—symbolizing Christ's feeding of the five thousand with five loaves. The wine symbolizes Jesus' blood, the wheat is for the bread, and the oils symbolize the fish used in the miracle.

At a mass at 10 o'clock the following morning the Divine Liturgy will be read and the hymns of St. John's Chrysostom will be sung.

A rundown of Pottstown and area Catholic masses Thursday follows:

St. Aloysius — Upper church, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 a. m.; lower church, 7:30 and 9 a. m. Masses in both churches at 5:30 p. m. will accommodate about 800 persons.

Holy Trinity Roman Catholic, 5:30 and 7 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Harry Spanks Adlai for Wishy-Washy Attitude, Says Stevenson Couldn't Reach 'Man on Street'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman says he concluded in 1956 that Adlai E. Stevenson would be "ineffectual as a president" because of indecisiveness.

Truman, writing in Look magazine, said he also felt Stevenson was "uncertain of himself and remote from the people."

Stevenson, he said further, brought about a period of "confusion, drift and factionalism" in the Democratic party by not exercising party leadership after his 1952 defeat by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He also said Stevenson's 1952 campaign was not conducted on the Democratic administration record and cost the party three or four million votes.

In 1956 Truman supported the then Gov. W. Averell Harriman of New York for the Democratic presidential nomination. He has come out this year for Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Stevenson, the party's nominee in both 1952 and 1956, has said he is not a candidate for the nomination this year but has left the door open to acceptance if it is offered.

Stevenson, in New York over the weekend, said he had not seen the Truman article and would not comment until he had, possibly when he returns to Chicago Tuesday.

Truman told of a conversation he had with Stevenson in July 1956 in the Hotel Blackstone in Chicago.

"As we talked about some of the major domestic issues," Truman wrote, "Stevenson's only comment to me was, 'What is it I am doing wrong?'

"I walked over to the window. Looking down, I saw a man standing at the hotel entrance. I beckoned to Stevenson and then, pointing down, said, 'The thing you have got to do is to learn how to reach that man.'

"I was trying, as gently as I could, to tell this man—so gifted in speech and intellect, and yet apparently so uncertain of himself and remote from people—that he had to learn how to communicate with the man in the street.

"When we parted that day, I felt that I had failed in my effort to help him. I realized more than ever that Stevenson not only had a problem in making himself understood by the man in the street, but that his indecisiveness, unless overcome, would make him ineffectual as a president."

Truman said that in 1952, when he decided not to seek re-election, he felt that "Stevenson was the best prospect in sight and I was hoping he would supply the new leadership the party needed."

He indicated that it was that year he first encountered what he called indecisiveness by Stevenson, then governor of Illinois.

He wrote that he urged Stevenson three times to become the candidate, but that Stevenson declined each time.

"Then, out of the clear, on the day the presidential candidate was to be chosen," Truman wrote, "Gov. Stevenson telephoned me at the White House. He said that his friends wanted to nominate him for president.

"'Would you object if I agreed to run?'" Stevenson asked me.

"Well, I blew up. I talked to him in a language I think he had never heard before. I told him that for months I had been trying to get him to be a candidate.

Now, at the last possible moment, he had changed his mind. But he was still the best prospect we had, and I said I would support him."

Truman said he brought about Stevenson's nomination by flying from Washington to Chicago and telling the convention leaders the Illinoisan was the logical candidate.

"Then Stevenson went out and conducted a campaign that was not in support of the Democratic program of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and myself," Truman wrote. "You cannot successfuly run as a Democrat, with a Democratic administration in power, without running on the record of that administration.

"The way the campaign was conducted cost the party at least three to four million votes."

Truman said that Stevenson was reluctant to take over the party leadership in 1952 through "I certainly tried to make Stevenson and everyone else in the party understand that the leadership was his."

"His failure to pick up the reins of leadership brought about a period of confusion, drift and factionalism within our party," Truman held.

Truman said he came out for Harriman in 1956 after deciding "to make it easier for Stevenson to disassociate himself from me politically."

Truman said he had been left uneasy by a Stevenson speech in 1956 recommending that the United States "stop the testing of hydrogen explosions on a unilateral basis."

"Obviously, Stevenson meant well," Truman wrote. "But I thought he had got onto a subject with which he was not fully familiar, and that he did not grasp the implications and the danger of his proposal."

Tip on Fatal Accident Takes Top Cash Award

ing crash resulted after the Philadelphia car went out of control while speeding. The auto jumped into oncoming traffic, causing the triple fatality

Despite the gruesome sight, and flames from the wreckage which threatened Romich's barn, Romich called The Mercury as soon as he could and won $5 for his efforts. His cooperation also enabled a Mercury photographer to get a pictorial report of the 3 o'clock tragedy.

SECOND PRIZE for news tips was won by Mrs. Clarence Lukens, 1330 Cherry street.

Mrs. Lukens received $3 for informing The Mercury about a bolt of lightning that struck her home Sunday.

The flash ruined her television set and jarred an attic beam. The event was one of two lightning strikes in Pottstown during heavy rains.

Third prize for the week's news tips was won by Clinton Moyer, Alburtis RD 1.

Moyer told The Mercury about a man caught in a 25-foot deep mine shaft. The story appeared in Thursday's edition and brought Moyer $2.

For the past 75 years the mine shaft has been used as a dump.

Michael Dreher, Macungie RD 1, was emptying a can of refuse into the shaft, when he slipped and toppled inside After nearly six hours, he was rescued by his daughter, Susan, and by a neighbor.

Residents of Route 83 Area Alarmed, Seek Solution to Mounting Carnage

down on her—with 200 bushels of corn. She too spent several weeks in the hospital.

A TEEN-AGER put a bald spot on the lawn that still remains when his car skidded off the road, onto the lawn and back across the road before coming to rest against a telephone pole.

Two miles further east the two lane concrete highway that residents of the area call Deadman's Run swings into another curve.

It was at that point that an Army sergeant from Norristown and two Reading women were killed on May 7, in another head-on collision.

What makes the two-mile stretch of Route 83 so dangerous that residents and drivers have tagged it Deadman's Run?

Police blamed the excessive speed of one car as the cause for the two recent triple fatalities. Residents agree that the road is a "racetrack—especially at nighttime"—but say there are other factors that contribute to the high accident rate.

AND THESE factors can be cured, they charge.

They cite the lack of road shoulders, poor lighting, lack of warning signs and an unnecessary curve at Park road and Route 83 as major contributory factors.

Route 83 is two-lane macadam from Route 100 old Route 83. There it becomes concrete and the speed limit increases from 35 to 50 miles per hour.

There are only two traffic lights between Route 100 and Route 23 on Route 83—the first at Keim street and the second a few miles further east at the road that leads into Parker Ford.

The road is level coming into Park road—the beginning of Deadman's Run. For seven-tenths of a mile the unbanked highway twists and turns in an S-curve. Eastbound traffic tends to swing into the oncoming lane to make the curves. Westbound traffic hugs the north side of the shoulderless road.

It is here that so many accidents occur—that so many cars land on Romich's front lawn.

THE ROAD levels out prior to a series of roller coaster dips and curves that turns the stretch into a racetrack on the downgrades and a motor-strainer on the upgrades.

At the point where the first triple fatality occurred the road runs between two 25-foot embankments. It was the lack of a shoulder and the embankments that may have contributed to the death of the two women in the first triple fatality.

Harold Wagner, of Wagner's Auto Sales, on Route 83, 500 yards west of the accident site, explained that the women's car was as close to the embankment as possible with the emergency brake on when the car driven by the Army sergeant smashed into it.

"There wasn't anywhere they could go to escape. They must have seen the other car when it was weaving back and forth across the road," he explained. "All they could do was sit there and pray."

(The second article in this series will discuss the charges that the danger could be lessened by removing the curve, increasing lighting and warning signs and lowering the speed limit.)

ter Adrienne, now 20, was injured by a car in front of the house.

His home is just east of Chestmont Swimming club, incorporated. "They would give about 2-1 odds last Summer that if you had to stop before pulling into the pool, someone would hit your car from behind."

The pool and his home are located at the bottom of one of the long hills that increases the tendency to speed. "At high speeds, one has trouble seeing the turn signals of the car in front or stopping in time to avoid hitting it," he explained.

"There was an average of two accidents a week in front of the club. Luckily none was serious—but some might have been and one was very close to being a tragedy," he noted, referring to the car that skidded through the fence and nearly into the pool on a Summer day when it was filled with children.

Landes, like his neighbors on Route 83, knows that it pays to have the telephone number of the police and ambulance company handy.

On New Year's Eve two separate crashes in front of his house sent cars spinning into his side yard. One car ruined a springhouse and the other knocked over a 30-foot Spruce tree. The driver of one of the cars spent several months in the hospital.

And in the past three weeks, two cars have spun out of control within two hundred yards of his home—one shearing off a telephone pole and the other denting a fender on a fence.

WHICH BUSINESS IS BETTER FOR YOUR COMMUNITY?

Company A

This manufacturing company has earned an average of 10.7% on capital since the war.

In 6 years following the war, assets grew by 135%, half in inventories, half in plant.

Three-fourths of this money came from retained earnings and depreciation. Investors cheerfully furnished the rest.

In the next 6 years, although selling was harder, the company was financially strong enough to risk and innovate.

Assets went up one-third.

The market price of its stock climbed.

Consumers got more products.

More jobs were provided. Employs today 80% more workers than in 1945. Turnover is low.

Has won loyal customers on quality and product as well as price.

Company B

This manufacturing company has earned an average of 2.5% on capital since the war.

Profits so poor had to borrow money to finance expansion.

Assets grew by only 38% and most of it was inventories.

By 1951 nearly half its capital was debt.

During the next 6 years profits were low.

Modernization expense had to be cut.

It could not afford to replace obsolete plant.

Assets went down by one-third.

Stock dropped back to half the 1945 price level.

Jobs were cut in half. Plants were closed.

Buildings and equipment became an economic waste.

Company still trying to sell by cutting prices, still making profits too low to get it out of the rut.

These two true-life stories are not unique. No matter what business you examine, good profits go hand in hand with good service, more and better jobs, company growth and modern cost-cutting equipment.

This is as true of the telephone business as it is of any other.

Communist-Armed Guerrillas Terrorize Cameroon Republic

DOUALA, Cameroon (AP) — Bands of Communist-inspired guerrillas are terrorizing the five-month-old Cameroon republic.

The former French-administered United Nations trusteeship is a land of fear. The trouble began in the struggle for power months before the West African territory gained its independence New Year's Day.

A leading police commissioner says guerrillas have killed more than 1,000 Negroes; 50 European civilians, mostly French; and 30 members of the Cameroon army and police.

He estimates 5,000 guerrillas have been killed but says there are still at least 5,000 active terrorists.

The government of 36-year-old Ahmadou Ahidjo proclaimed amnesty for all political criminals upon his election as president early this month. The only condition for a free pardon is that the terrorists surrender their arms. The amnesty offer remains open until June 1 but Cameroon and French officials are not optimistic about its success in restoring peace to this strife-torn nation of 3½ million inhabitants.

The guerrillas were believed at first using terrorism to advance nationalist claims for independence. But the ruthless killings and pillaging continued after freedom came Jan. 1. The aims of the terror campaign, aside from seeking to overthrow Ahidjos' relatively moderate regime, are not entirely clear.

For years there has been intense antagonism between the north and the more prosperous south, where the port city of Douala on the Gulf of Guinea dominates the country's economic life.

The north, a predominantly agricultural region with cotton the only major export, is approximately half Moslem and half pagan.

The south, more advanced socially, has most of the nation's natural resources—cocoa, coffee, bananas. In the south, too, is the republic's biggest industrial plant at Edea producing 45,000 tons of aluminum a year.

President Ahidjo, a devout Moslem, hails from the north which strongly supports his ruling Union Cameroonaise party. The south is the home of a large number of political groups who draw allegiance mostly on a tribal basis with each chief being something of a political leader among his own people.

The Bamileke tribe forms the hard core of the terrorists and supports the extremist Union of Cameroon People party, which reputedly pro-Communist.

While neither the Soviet Union nor any other Communist country has a diplomatic mission in the Cameroon, terrorists' weapons and ammunition found by the security forces have been of Czech manufacture.

1000 Students In Japan Again Battle Police

TOKYO (AP) — Nearly 1,000 left-wing university students battled steel-helmeted police Monday in another violent demonstration against Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's government and the U.S.-Japanese security pact.

The students, growing more aggressive in their outbursts, hurled bricks and stones into the ranks of an estimated 3,000 officers outside Kishi's barricaded official residence.

Club-wielding officers broke up the crowd 40 minutes later. Authorities said 88 police were injured, 14 seriously, and about 40 students were hurt.

Many of the students later joined various left-wing groups in snake dance demonstrations through the streets. Chanting anti-government slogans and singing the Communist Internationale, the youths were demanding dissolution of Parliament and the immediate resignation of Kishi and his pro-West Cabinet.

But Kishi reiterated his determination to remain in office and keep Parliament in session until the security pact becomes law.

The treaty was rammed through the lower house in a stormy midnight session last Friday. It now awaits ratification by the upper house. If the chamber does not act, it goes into effect 30 days after lower house ratification (June 19).

Kishi was not in his official residence during the demonstration, the second in four days by the Zengakuren National Student Federation in its campaign against the government.

The Prime Minister at the time was in conference with officials of his Liberal-Democratic party over the storm created by the 10-year treaty, which commits the United States to defend Japan and provides for U.S. bases here.

The opposition Socialists said they planned to call at the U.S Embassy Tuesday and officially demand that President Eisenhower call off his scheduled visit to Japan next month.

Most Japanese newspapers, while not necessarily opposed to the pact, feel its ratification should not have been hurried. Many are demanding Kishi's resignation and new parliament elections to test the popularity of the treaty.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Rhoads Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

By DOLLIE SMITH
(Mercury Staff Writer)

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Rhoads, 153 South Reading avenue, Boyertown, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in the manner to which they have become accustomed for the last half century.

The celebration Sunday included a series of stories and ancedotes told extemperaneously by Mr. Rhoads whose sharp wit and dry sense of humor has gained him the reputation of comedian in the small surrounding Dutch communities.

His wife, often called the silent partner, has heard the stories and jokes backwards and forwards. She offers a comment only to correct a misquoted line now and then or to inject her favorite line," holy mackeral."

"It's been a zany life together, but a happy one," Mr. Rhoads said. "I stayed married to the same one for 50 years, so I had to be happy didn't I," he asked.

Still joking, he recalled how he met his wife when she was a domestic at Bechtelsville Union hotel. "I married her and took her away, so they had to get another maid."

They were married May 21, 1910 in the parsonage of St. John's Lutheran church, Boyertown, by the late Rev A. M. Weber.

Mrs. Rhoads, the former Lillie Haas, is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haas, of Clayton. Mr. Rhoads lived with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John G. Rhoads, in New Berlinville.

For the first "lucky" 13 years of their marriage, they lived with Mr. Rhoads' grandmother in New Berlinville. Mr. Rhoads was working for Boyertown Burial Casket company.

The anniversary celebrants probably are best remembered as owners and operators of C. G. Rhoads Meats and Groceries in New Berlinville. For 22 years Mr. Rhoads entertained as well as waited on his customers.

In 1942 he applied for a job at Jacobs Aircraft company and worked there until the company closed. For the next ten years he was an employe at Spicers.

He spent the last six years as stock clerk at Boyertown Auto Body works.

Reluctant to cite his age, Mr Rhoads admitted he was "a little more than 29." As a clue he mentioned that he outgrew his wedding clothes.

When discovered that he observed his 68th birthday, he replied, "well, that's just a little more than 29."

A member of Basonic lodge, 741, Mr. Rhoads held memberships in many Masonic branches through the area and was once an avid fisherman.

He pointed out that while deep sea fishing, he suffered nothing more than a broken fishing pole.

Described as an immaculate housewife, Mrs. Rhoads spends most of her time cleaning and cooking. Her husband has been working six days a week.

When asked what they do in their spare time," Mr. Rhoads joked," we sit around, listen to the radio and look at picture books. We have no television just a telephone.

"We can listen to the radio as we shoo the cobwebs."

In his first serious statement, Mr. Rhoads told how his wife has a spitless house at all times and was an excellent helper when he owned the store.

Since they had no children, Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads bestowed parental love on their many nieces and nephews.

Hwo of these "children" Warren Guldin and Mrs. Edwin Styer, East Greenville, and their families were responsible for the party given to honor the anniversary couple.

The affair took place at the Guldin home, Horseshoe drive.

The host and hostess included: Mr. and Mrs. Guldin and children, Robert and James, and Mr. and Mrs. Styer and daughter, Ann.

Mary Ann Szuchan Becomes Bride Of Louis Alexander in Phoenixville

The marriage of Many Ann Szuchan, Phoenixville, and Louis J. Alexander, 107 North Third avenue, Royersford, was solemnized Saturday in Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church, Phoenixville.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Mary Szuchan. Mr. Alexander is a son of Sebastian Alexander.

Officiating at the service was the Rev. John Falatek. Bridal music was presented by Betty Zurek, organist. The church choir also sang.

Blue and white carnations decorated the altar. Two hundred fifty guests attended from New Jersey, Virginia, Pottstown, Phoenixville, East Greenville and Royersford.

Charles Szuchan Jr. escorted his sister to the altar. She wore a gown of chantilly lace styled with an empire bodice, undescored with silk organza, and modified scalloped sabrina neckline. Sleeves tapered to a point at the wrist.

Pearls and iridescents accented the bodice. The bouffant skirt swept into a cathedral train. A coronet of pearls and bloosms was secured to a tiered veil of silk illusion.

With her prayerbook, she carried a white orchid and phalanopsis orchids.

Mrs. Jack Burnley, Chester Springs, served as matron of honor in a powder blue gown of silk organa. A modified sabrina neckline and short sleeves fashioned the bodice. The bell-shaped skirt was accented at the hipline with a small bow.

To complete her attire, she wore organza blossoms in her hair with circular veil and carried a nosegay of blue and white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. George Haines, a sister of the bride; Mary Fakete, and Carol Szuchan, another sister of the bride, all of Phoenixville.

They were gowned like the honor attendant in romance blue and carried the same flowers.

Karen Ann Szuchan, niece of the bride wore a diminutive copy of the attendants' gowns to serve as flower girl. Ring bearer was Harry Bullick, Royersford, a nephew of the bridegroom.

Brother of the bridegroom, Joseph Alexander, 1 Diamond court, was best man. Ushers were George Haines, John Szuchan, brother of the bride, Roanoke, Va. and Arthur DeLong, East Greenville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

To receive guests, Mrs. Szuchan, the bride's mother, chose a sheath wood rose, silk organza ensemble, white accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.

A reception followed at the Slovak-American Citizens club, Phoenixville.

The newlyweds then left for a two-week honeymoon at Miami Beach, Fla. For traveling, the bride wore a beige two-piece linen suit, black patent leather accessories and her bridal orchid.

The couple plans to reside with the bride's mother.

The new Mrs. Alexander was graduated from Phoenixville High school and attened Columbia institute, Philadelphia. She is employed as a secretary at Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company.

Her husband, a graduate of Royersford High school, served two years with the U. S. Army. He is employed in the shipping department of West company, Phoenixville.

Pre-nuptial parties were given by the attendants and the bride's mother at Friendship firehall, Phoenixville, and by her co-workers at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Laver.

Physicians call it obesity, but it's just as unhealthy if we call it pounds—too many pounds. In some places a chief cause of early death is malnutrition but in this country the Grim Reaper's number one helper is overeating. Overweight people subject their heart and blood vessels to undue stresses and strains. Every ounce of excess flesh is a menace to health. Which is why so many of us diet today. Rain Washes Out C-M Loop Title Tilt, Eight Other Area Baseball Contests

The weather man, a fickle old gentleman who invariably has the last word on outdoor sports activity, apparently decided Monday wasn't the right day for settling area baseball issues, including important ones such as the Ches-Mont league championship.

His order for more rain following a wet weekend forced postponement of the Ches-Mont title clash between Pottstown and Coatesville at the neutral Spring-Ford High school site in Royersford and eight other contests involving area teams.

The Trojan-Raider test has been reset for Wednesday to allow the Royersford diamond time to dry out, with the consent of the weather man of course.

Whether the postponement will hurt or help the chances of either club is anybody's guess Pottstown coach Carl Kolanko is of the opinion that both will benefit from the delay.

"I THINK both the Raiders and Trojans will be better equipped Wednesday," said Kolanko Monday night. "The postponement will give our pitchers a longer rest and the same goes for Coatesville's moundsmen.

"In fact, Coatesville may start (Bill) Mendenhall as he'll have had plenty of rest by Wednesday. My starting choice is still (Nick) Petro and I'm hoping (Ed) Wanish's finger is healed enough for emergency help."

Jack Conrad was the original slab selection for the Raiders. But with the delay it is highly probable Mendenhall, who set down Downingtown on one hit last Friday as Coatesville clinched the Lower section flag with a 2-1 verdict, will get the nod.

Kolanko's concern over Wanish's injured index finger stems from the fact that the hors de combat hurler deals from the port side. With Petro, also a lefthander, and Wanish in good working order, Kolanko hopes to have enough southpaw slinging to cope with the predominantly lefthanded Red Raider batting order.

OTHER WASHOUTS Monday included two Inter-County league tilts, a Bux-Mont league affair, a pair of Junior High pairings and two twilight contests in local league play along with a City league softball clash.

The Upper Dublin-Pottsgrove game at Pottsgrove and the Collegeville-Trappe-Lower Moreland get-together at Lower Moreland had to be rescheduled.

The Falcons and Cardinals will battle it out on Friday at 3:30, while the Colonel-Lion encounter has been reslated for Wednesday, also at 3:30.

The postponed Central Bucks-Upper Perkiomen, Bux-Mont league pairing at East Greenville will be played today at 3:30.

JUNIOR HIGH rainouts included the Pottstown-West Chester Central duel at Memoral park and the Collegeville-Trappe-Pottsgrove meeting at Pottsgrove.

Pottsgrove and Collegeville-Trappe will try again at 3:30 today, but the Golden Cubs and West Chester will wait until Wednesday.

As for twilight action, the Church league game between Coventryville and Coventry Brethren and the opening Knee-Hi league clash, which involved Holy Trinity and Transfiguration, have been postponed indefinitely as well as the Whiz Kids-Diamond Glass, City softball fight.

Dodgers Slice Buc Lead As Koufax Pegs 1-Hitter

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Left-hander Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked league-leading Pittsburgh 1-0 Monday night on one hit. The loss cut the Pirates' lead over idle second-place San Francisco to one game.

Bennie Daniels, starting Pirate pitcher, got the lone hit off Koufax, a single in the second inning.

Koufax didn't permit a Pirate batter to reach base after the third inning when he issued his sixth walk. He retired the last 19 hitters in order. He struck out 10.

Tom Davis, rookie center fielder who was batting only .138 before the game, knocked in the only run in the seventh inning.

Norm Larker opened the inning with a double. Daniels retired the next two batters. Then Davis belted a double off the left field light tower, scoring Larker.

Daniels and Koufax battled on even terms through the first six innings, Daniels giving only two hits. He left the game for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. The loss was his second against one victory.

The win was Koufax' first after four losses, and the first 1960 shutout against the Pirates.

The Bucs loaded the bases in the second inning when Bill Mazeroski walked, Daniels singled and Bob Skinner walked, all with two out. But Koufax got Dick Groat on a force play.

Elroy Face pitched hitless ball the last two innings for the Pirates.

The Dodgers had two other scoring chances, once in the third inning when Junior Gilliam was cut down at the plate trying to score on Wally Moons' single behind second base.

Gilliam reached third in the eighth inning, but Face retired Larker on a grounder to Mazeroski.

The victory enabled the Dodgers to take sole possession of fifth place, one-half game ahead of idle St. Louis.

Elston Howard's Sacrifice Fly Hands Yanks 4-3 Victory Over Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Elston Howard's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning drove in Gil McDougald with the winning run Monday as the New York Yankees defeated the Kansas City Athletcs 4-3.

It was the fourth victory without a loss for the Yankees against the A's.

With one out in the ninth, losing pitcher Ray Herbert (2-2) walked McDougald and Bobby Richardson and then advanced the runners with a wild pitch. Howard batted for John Gabler, the second of three Yankee relief pitchers, and knocked home the clincher.

Gabler picked up the victory, his second against three losses, by throttling the A's for two innings. Bob Turley, who started and went 5 1-3 innings, gave up all the A's runs.

Ryne Duren held the A's off in the last inning. After putting two men on via walks with only one out, he struck out pinch hitters Dick Williams and Hank Bauer.

Tony Kubek was the big gun for the Yankees, driving in two runs with a double, one of two he socked in four times at bat.

Whitey Herzog drove in two runs for the A's with a pair of singles.

The Athletics scored the first run on singles by Jerry Lumpe, Russ Snyder and Herzog in the first inning. But the Yankees came right back in the second with three runs on four hits, including an RBI single by Turley and Kubek's two-run double.

In the sixth the A's tied the score on a pair of runs earned by Norm Siebern's one-out triple and successive singles by Herzog, Harry Chiti and Andy Carey. Turley departed at that point in favor of Duke Maas, who got Bill Tuttle to bounce into a double-play.

Chicubs Edge Reds, 7-6, In 13-Inning Encounter

CINCINNATI (AP)—George Altman's second home run of the season hoisted Chicago's Cubs to a 13th inning victory over Cincinnati Monday night, 7-6.

It was one of a half dozen homers sprayed around Crosley Field—four by the Reds.

Ben Johnson, last of five Chicago pitchers, picked up the victory after two innings of work.

All but one Cincinnati run came on homers. Gus Bell's two-run poke in the bottom of the 12th gave the Reds a second tie, 6-6.

The Cubs, who hadn't scored since the first inning, finally cut through reliever Joe Nuxhall's control in the 12th inning with four hits and two runs, taking a 6-4 edge.

Nuxhall, who took over in the eighth, had allowed only one Cub to reach base before the troublesome 12th.

It had taken the Reds three homers and eight innings to catch up the first time.

Vada Pinson's homer in the eighth tied it, 4-4. Ed Bailey had banged a leadoff homer the previous inning.

Jim Brosnan, who held the Cubs scoreless and retired 14 straight in middle innings, got his first homer—and first hit—of the season in the second.

Ted Kluszewski Assumes Command In AL Bat Race

NEW YORK, (AP)—Ted Kluszewski, recovering the form that made him a feared National league slugger, has taken over the American league batting lead with one of the most productive one-week performances of his 13-year career in the Majors.

In six games covering 25 times at bat last week, Kluszewski collected eight singles, four doubles and two homers for 14 hits and a .560 average. He also drove in 10 runs and scored six times.

The surge increased the Chicago White Sox first baseman's batting mark from .308 to .406. He holds a comfortable margin over runnerup Norm Cash of Detroit .359 and Pete Runnels of Boston in third place at .358.

TED KLUSZEWSKI

The league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates dominate the National league batting race. Roberto Clemente rushed up to take the lead, gaining eight points to .382. Clemente, in third place a week ago, had 12 hits in 29 tries.

SMOKY BURGESS, the Pittsburgh catcher, remained in second place despite a 25-point drop to .354. Bob Skinner, the Pirate outfielder, climbed from sixth to third position on a 14-point increase to .351. Skinner had 11 safeties in 27 at bats.

Joe Adcock of Milwaukee advanced from ninth to fourth place at .349 while rookie Tony Curry of Philadelphia fell one notch to fifth at .348.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, the leader a week ago, tumbled into a tie for sixth place with Bill White of St. Louis. Both are hitting .341. Mays had only four hits in 22 times at bat last week and lost 39 points.

Frank Robinson of Cincinnati hit three homers last week to move into a four-way tie for the National league lead with Ernie Banks of Chicago, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Willie McCovey of San Francisco. Each has nine. Clemente drove in seven runs to take over the top spot in RBI with 34.

Jim Lemon of Washington retained the AL home run lead with nine, one more than Woody Held of Cleveland and Bob Cerv of New York.

Theron Sapp Inks Pact With Philadelphia 11

Jose Becerra Retains Bantam Crown

TOKYO, (AP)—World bantamweight champion Jose Becerra of Mexico retained his title Monday night by gaining a narrow, split decision over Japan's Kenji Yonekura in a 15-round bout.

A crowd of about 25,000 in the 40,000-seat Korakuen baseball stadium saw the hard-hitting Mexican champion chase the retreating challenger throughout the fight.

But the 24-year-old Becerra, winner of 40 fights by knockouts, never could pin his fleet-footed opponent and set him up for a knockout. He didn't even score a knockdown. It was Becerra's 21st straight victory, 15 of them by knockouts.

The broad shouldered champion won the 118-pound division crown by knocking out France's Alphonse Halimi in 1959 and he put Halimi down for the full count again in their return bout last February.

Anthony Maceroni, the president of the National Boxing association from Providence, R. I., cast the deciding ballot. He had Becerra the winner, 147-141, under the 10-point scoring system. Referee Ramon Berumen of Mexico voted for Becerra, 146-142. Judge Ko Toyama of Japan had Yonekura ahead, 148-143.

For his second title defense, Becerra received a $50,000 guarantee. The 25-year-old Yonekura, in his 11th professional fight, was guaranteed only $2,000. He came out of the fight, however, with added prestige.

Kennedy Lead Increased by Delegate Picking

WASHINGTON (AP)—Weekend delegate picking has boosted Sen. John F. Kennedy's lead for the Democratic presidential nomination to 329½ votes. This is 43.3 per cent of the 761 majority needed to nominate.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, by gaining Virginia's 33-vote delegation by state convention instruction, is now in second place in the unofficial standings with 107½ votes. This is Johnson's second 33-vote delegation—he has Tennessee's under the unit rule.

On the Republican side, the Oregon primary plus fresh Associated Press polls of delegates in Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Utah and Wyoming have increased Vice President Richard M. Nixon's GOP National Convention strength to within 60 votes of the 666 required for the GOP presidential nomination.

Nixon, virtually a shoo-in for the top spot on the Republican ticket, now has 606 delegates in the unofficial lineup, with 29 favoring Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and one, in Arkansas, supporting Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. A total of 138 still are uncommitted.

• • •

Republicans now have named 774 of their 1,331 full-vote delegates. Nixon's delegates are spread over 26 states, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands.

The Democrats have selected delegates with 882 votes in their 1,521-vote convention. Most of their delegates will have only half a vote each.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

POP LARKINS drove his wife and six kids to town one Saturday afternoon and, after two hours of hunting, finally found a parking space. Relief registered strongly on his face as he maneuvered the car into the long-sought haven; then he turned to his family and exclaimed, "And that's that! Now does anybody remember why we drove to town?"

Horace Greeley, always a newspaper editor with rules of his own, insisted that "news" be treated as a plural noun. Accordingly, he wired his star reporter one night, "What are the news?" The reporter answered, "There's not a darned new!"

Two Vassar seniors were exchanging confidences. "During my whole vacation," declared the first, "I didn't allow one man to make love to me." "Really," cooed her friend. "Which one was that?"

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Stock Market Is Preparing For Soundly Based Advance

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market is preparing for a soundly based advance, a financial analyst predicted Monday.

"The promise of improved industrial activity over the best part of the year ahead reinforces this conviction," said the Fitch Survey.

Fitch expressed the opinion that it was immaterial whether last week's advance stemmed from failure of the summit meeting.

"What is important at this point is that a change in investment sentiment has apparently taken place for the better in the wake of recent developments not only at home but abroad," it added.

Fitch cited such domestic developments as an anticipated increase in defense spending; possibility that the Federal Reserve System will reduce margin requirements for buying stock from 90 per cent to 70 or even 50 per cent; and generally favorable prospects for good business.

"We suggest that the investor discard any remaining cynicism and adopt a more constructive attitude," Fitch said. "A new phase in the stock market's profitable panorma is obviously unfolding."

Standard & Poor's Corp. said it expects the market rally to continue although it may run into occasional storms.

The firm anticipates that heightening of cold war pressures will sustain speculative interest in a number of stock groups that have been "out of favor and acting as depressants to the general list."

"The chief implication of the summit fiasco lies in the area of defense spending policies," said Standard & Poor's. "It means that such expenditures will be maintained at least around current levels and may well move higher, particularly if the sentiments of the Democratic leaders are implemented by that party's success in November.

"If so, this would not only stimulate operations of key military producers. It also would tend to loosen up the conservative inventory practices now prevalent in business.

"The monetary implications would pose serious long-range problems for the economy. But the immediate market response probably would be bullish, as investors moved to counter an inflation threat that has been dormant for months."

Former Burgess Clarifies Stand On Airport Issue

a point, I was in favor of the Pottstown Municipal airport project. As conditions developed, I began to see clearly that the present site was inadequate and not suited to meet present and future airport transportation needs of the entire industrial metropolis.

"From the beginning when I wanted to do all in my power to facilitate the obtaining of an adequate airport site, I co-operated by suggesting to various landowners and residents in the vicinity of the present Pottstown Municipal airport site to exchange or sell certain pieces of land in order to make a site available.

"But as time went on I began to see that any further Federal, State or local monies invested in the present site would be a sheer waste of public funds.

"The present site is not suited for unlimited expansion; it will not adequately meet the necessities of a safe and adequate airport site for the area.

"Already, very much money has been invested in the present Pottstown Municipal site. It would appear to me from a business point of view as well as from the long range point of view that investing another $200,000 in the present site, which would give us only paved runways and possibly extending one of the runways by only 140 feet, would be a sheer waste of money".

GRIFFITH'S recommendation was that no more money from any source be spent on the Municipal airport, and that a "thorough and objective" survey of several locations be made.

At the opening of his case last Tuesday, Sager said, "May I state before we start that we were going to have former Burgess William Griffith testify for us.

"He was going to come along, except that his wife took sick at the last moment," Sager said.

Sager asked the Federal examiners if he could submit a letter from Griffith at a later date.

Horace P. Luckett, one of the examiners, said the letter could become an exhibit, and Sager could mail it within a week.

"Once a supporter of a municipal airport, Mr. Griffith has changed his mind," said Sager.

BUSH WAS the first person to testify for the borough, speaking as a representative of industrial interests and as a former borough council president (1946-1950) when the airport was first improved. He challenged Sager's statement that Griffith was against expansion at the airport.

He said, "Mr. Griffith was my political father when we were both in borough government together. He advised me often, and we are very close friends.

"I can't imagine he would take such a stand, particularly when he was one of the first to notice the need of a Pottstown airport way back in 1944," Bush wondered.

Griffith remained non-committal during the past week, until Sager revealed the signed statement Monday.

Joint Board Okays $750,000 Budget

suggests the increase be postponed for another year.

"I question the wisdom of trying to do so much," she said."

Pierre C. Fraley refuted the statement and answered, "It's not that we're up so far, but that we're so much behind."

He pointed out that the library should have a minimum of 10,000 books or ten per pupil and actually the library only has half that amount.

He added that it would be five years before the school has an adequate library and that postponing the increase would only delay it another year.

The meeting was held in the Owen J. Roberts High school and was presided over by William M. Hall, president.

Area Man Involved In Towamencin Crash

Robert Reppert, truck driver from Allentown, was treated for rib injuries in North Penn hospital, Lansdale.

James E. Huber, Telford RD 1, was the other motorist in the 11:30 a. m. accident. Total damage was estimated at $1000 by Jeffersonville State troopers.
